Dear Mr. Tarr,

Please do not let Governor Cooper and the DEQ approve the Atlantic Coast Pipeline.

I have deeply appreciated seeing you at community meetings over the past year. Your willingness to hear the public's concerns about North Carolina's water, air, and soils has been an important message of hope for the state. Now, it is time to act and demonstrate that you are doing more than just token listening. There is no way that the ACP can be built and operated without devastating and long-term damage to NC's rivers, streams and wetlands.

Please read about the Rover Pipeline's spill of over 150,000 gallons of drilling mud, diesel fuel, and chemicals into groundwater and an Ohio River this week:

<http://radio.wosu.org/post/ohio-epa-reports-new-rover-pipeline-spill-federal-regulators>

This is only one of the many spills and serious wetland damages caused by this pipeline. The same damages - or much worse - will soon be happening in North Carolina if you and Governor Cooper grant the 401 water permit for the ACP.

Please speak out against the 401 permit and work with Governor Cooper to live up to his commitments to protect North Carolina and the global climate.

Thank you,
John Wagner
